

THE SAUG

Longfield Road
KITCHEN & COCKTAILS

CORN CHAPEL

A photograph of a modern glass and steel structure, likely a building entrance or atrium. The structure is composed of a grid of dark metal frames holding large glass panels. The text "the grafton" is prominently displayed on the glass in a teal, lowercase, sans-serif font. The word "the" is smaller and positioned above "grafton". The background shows a blue sky with scattered white clouds. The structure is flanked by older brick buildings, suggesting a renovation or integration of modern architecture into a historic setting.

the grafton

CHOCOLAT CHOCOLAT

ROYAL CAMBRIDGE HOTEL

The image shows the upper portion of a building's facade. At the top, there is a row of five rectangular windows with black frames, set within a light-colored stone or brick structure. Below the windows is a wide, horizontal stone ledge. Centered on this ledge is a rectangular plaque with the name of the institution engraved in capital letters. Below the plaque is another stone ledge, and at the very bottom, the top of a doorway is visible, featuring a dark circular element.

McDONALD INSTITUTE FOR ARCHAEOLOGICAL RESEARCH

maa
MUSEUM of archaeology
and anthropology

Free entry

Tuesday - Sunday
10.30am - 4.30pm

Monday
12.30 - 4.30pm

Telephone
01223 333916

www.maa.ac.uk

Donations and gifts are welcome

© 2010 MAA

IDEN CHAPEL

ARCHAEOLOGY AND ANTHROPOLOGY

MUSEUM

